Old Fangs

Black Mountain

Is it safe for the cowards to do what they've already done?
When the sun is electric and sparkles its way through your heart
Is it foolish to know what you want before you've begun?When they're milking you dry and bemoaning the magical farce
You explain to the law that you're slaving over simple regardA vow, I'm straight laced forever
A bow, I'm straight laced foreverWhen the glory arrives and takes shape over what've become and your world closes in and the power is all that you love
Is it foolish to know what you want before you've begun?Bloody visions of a world so torn I'll play with what can burnSlowly the empire smashed the din
We'll wait for the open tea
And hold it together man
Until it's timeBloody visions of a world so torn I'll play those death wish chordsSlowly the empire smashed the din
We'll wait for the circle storm
Treat this like foreverIs it safe for the cowards to do what they've already done?
When the sun is electric and sparkles its way through your heartA vow, I'm straight laced forever
A bow, I'm straight laced forever

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/