

The Finish Line

Train

I thought I knew it all
I've been through the highs, said all my goodbyes
Learned to run before I learned to crawl
It's not worth fighting for if one of us is sure
And one of us is dying, trying to find love's cure I have waited all my life to paint these cities red
Thoughts I've always had here are stuck inside my head
It's not worth waiting for if one of us wants more
And one of us is dying, trying to find love's door When we learn how to fly
We forget how to walk
When we learn how to sing
We don't wanna hear each other talk Here we are at the finish line, ah
Here we are at the finish line And you, you really thought you knew
Everything to do
With holding onto me
And holding on, this time
Is making me slip right
Through your hands
And now you don't understand
Trying to find love all yourself When we learn how to fly,
We forget how to walk
When we learn how to sing
Don't wanna hear each other talk
When we know what we want
We forget what we need
When you find who you are
You forget about me Here we are at the finish line, ah
Here we are at the finish line, ah
Here we are at the finish line, ah, ah, ah
Ah, ah, ah
Ah, ah, ah

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>