

Beauty In Tragedy

August Burns Red

There is beauty in tragedy
The heart won't stop beating,
For the end is a new beginning
Where sorrow pulls the skyline of reality
And restarts a love ever after
As we grasp beyond defeat So keep us breathing a little longer a little longer
For just one moment with one another with one another
This night is falling on my hearts shame
These feelings bring tears to my eyes Just take away my world,
Leave my side
Hear the angels sing,
As I embrace you with a warm welcome home
With a warm welcome home
Hear the angels sing
Hear the angels sing Tomorrow, the air will be a little colder
But I'll be sure to breathe for the both of us.
And the nights
May be a little darker
But I'll be sure to carry the torch to warm the hearts
They're never gonna have to feel yours
I can hear your voice,
I can't hear your voice
But that's okay
'Cause I can feel you in my heart I can hear your voice,
I can't hear your voice
But that's okay
'Cause I can feel you in my heart One morning I'll wake up to you,
One morning I'll hear the angels sing.
On that morning we won't be worried about the weather
Nor will we might wither his life
While the clocks alarm. I'll be sure to write your name in the sun
Where the waves can't wash it away I'll be sure to write your name in the sun
Where the waves can't wash it away Until then I'll walk,
Until then I'll breathe in your name!
Never surrender the dream you had for this world to love, to forgive
To make something out of nothing! I will feel you, I will hear you forever!
