

An Honest Confession

Haste the Day

My words feel so empty
My lips speak in vain
Your face tells a story
Of wounds that still remain Stay true to my heart
Cast failures to the wind
I hate the way it feels
To know I slipped again Tomorrow holds another chance
Not just to smile but make it real
For what it's worth, I won't give up
For what it's worth, I won't give up I won't walk away
For what it's worth, I won't give up
