Epistle To Dippy

Donovan

Look on yonder misty mountain See the young monk meditating rhododendron forest Over dusty years, I ask you "What's it been like being you?" Through all levels you've been changing Getting a little bit better no doubt The doctor bit was so far out Looking through crystal spectacles I can see, I had your fun Doing us paperback reader Made the teacher suspicious about insanity Fingers always touching girl Through all levels you've been changing Getting a little bit better no doubt The doctor bit was so far out Looking through all kinds of windows I can see, I had your fun Looking through all kinds of windows I can see I had your fun Looking through crystal spectacles I can see, I had your fun Looking through crystal spectacles I can see, I had your fun Rebelling against society Such a tiny speculating whether to be a hip or Skip along quite merrily Through all levels you've been changing Elevator in the brain hotel Broken down a-just as well-a Looking through crystal spectacles ah I can see, I had your fun Dum dum dum, dum dum dum dum Dum dum dum, dum dum dum dum Dum dum dum, dum dum dum dum
