The Devil Wears Prada

This is the faith complex Where all it takes is another step so we can then step again
it's not all about the numbers
This is the faith complex
try not to write another disappointing letter to integrity only go faster when you've stopped and thought only go slower when you've learned of wisdom everything is a question of goodwill but we're too busy delivering answers with arrogance isn't it funny how ones compassion diminishes when his or her own perils rise?
Perils Rise
its not all about the numbers
What should we ask for?
Who should we look to if all we know is burning bridges?
Don't speak to me like I'm a stranger Turn your thoughts to the roots
As we've all been caught up in the brances With roots above and branches below Don't run if you don't know your walk
This is the faith complex
This is a memoir to friends persisting.
