

Murexa

Falling Up

Things are moving sideways, they are tracing every step

It starts a circle, it starts a connection

Not waiting for a net, jumping reckless

Set still surveillance, some switch turned on
Through back doors

(Back doors)

Through back doors I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone

I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone
Streetlights in the distance shed light on gravity

As the traffic moves to the closing scene

Where the spilling of secrets on the floor

Cause to question deep in our hearts
Through back doors

(Back doors)

Through back doors I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone

I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone
And I can hear it calling out to disappear again
I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone

I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone

I thought it was as it seems but everyone is alone
