For Members Only

Northstar

Just forget all about fate
While I unlock this gentlemen's promise
With flesh like fire but it lacks a color
And chemical laughs (that) fly around

Like drama

I know I move like an apparition in a style thats all ghostwritten

But these are the things I can take apart

These are the things I can take...You move me like I've got new feet..Just don't leave me like this Because I need wonder..My stereo has blown away

So for now your voice can stay..

But once they all circle me..

I will rip apart this machine..I am a prince

With paper parts

Made of spit an paper dolls

A killer's karma has been bound

Uneven seams

A broken bow...

She's got this problem with people flying

One way tickets and a fear of crying

But these are the things she can take apart

These are the things I will take...You move me like I've got new feet..Just don't leave me like this Because I need wonder..My stereo has blown away

So for now your voice can stay..

But once they all circle me..

I will rip apart this machine..I cut her up and sent all the parts and they hung them on all the corners and bars

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/