

The Want

Nick Hakim

I see the sparkling little diamond on your hand
It's plain to see that you've already got a man
I can tell you're not about to fall for any of my lines
I see the want to in your eyes Deep in your smile there's a quiet, soft desire
Like the ember of a once raging fire
You know I could light that fire again
You know it isn't wise
I see the want to in your eyes How strong is a band of gold
Is it strong enough to hold
When a love has grown cold
And a woman wants a love, sweet and warm
How many women just like you have silent schemes
How many men like me do they sleep with in their dreams
You can stay or you can go and although I sympathize
I still see the want to in your eyes
I see the want to in your eyes
