I Stand Alone

Theophilus London

The journey starts,beneath the stars
I stand alone
I put all my fears to all these years swept away the known
And know I run this town to be near you
And know of gray skies ever turned blue
I stand alone, I stand alone
I stand alone, I stand alone
The rain is phenomenal, the way that it falls Slam it down like a domino, and lay in the moss Said today is a new day I'm looking for new prey I'm trying to survive, trying to take in this loss The clothes don't make the man It's the man that makes the clothes And if this war doesn't end there's nothing left to fight And I'll assure you happen tonight
I stand alone, I stand alone
I stand alone, I stand alone
And know I run this town to be near you
I stand alone
And know of gray skies ever turned blue

It's the skill and the confidence, the will and the dominance
The deeper you get the more the reaper is prominent When Uncle Sam knock on the door, I tell them that I'mheaded for the dock on the shore Sailing away, are you coming with? just pack for the stay cause the feeling get, get, yeah, yeah
The war don't end and it's nothing left to fight And I assure you, happen tonight

I stand alone
The journey starts, beneath
the stars
I stand alone
I put all my fears to all these
years swept away the known
And know I run this town to be near you And know of great skies ever turned blue
I stand alone, I stand alone
I stand alone, I stand alone
I stand alone, I stand alone
I stand alone, I stand alone
