Pretend That You're Alone

Keane

We are just the monkeys who fell out of the trees
We are blisters on the earth
And we are not the flowers
We're the strangling weeds in the meadowAnd love is just our way of looking out for ourselves
When we don't want to live alone
So step into the vacuum
Tear off your clothes and be born againPretend that you're alone now and everything's gone
Just animal reflexes, no one looking on
Forget about the fashion, forget about the law
Pretend that you're alone nowI wonder what I'd do
If I could wake up every morning with a clean slate
I'd burn through the cities and tear through the towns
'Cause there's no deals to makeSo break out of the cages
The delicate structures we cling to all our lives
'Cause we're just the monkeys who fell out of the trees
When we were trying to flyPretend that you're alone now and everything's gone
Just primal desire, no right and no wrong
Forget about the future, forget about blame
Pretend that you're alone now
Pretend that you're alone nowShe's not waiting for tomorrow
And she has no love in her eyes
Oh no, I wanna come down right now
But although I wanna get out right now, oohPretend that you're alone now and everything's gone
Just animal reflexes, there's no one looking on
Forget about religion, forget about shame
Pretend that you're alone nowNo numbers in your phone now, there's nothing going on
Just primal desire, no right and no wrong
Forget about fashion, forget about fame
Pretend that you're alone now
Pretend that you're alone now
Pretend that you're alone now
