Never Too Late

Nate Dogg

Homey it's rainin' ten below zero
Kinda cold outside, yes it is cold
Tornado, hurricane and high tide
I tell you why homey
Had a homeboy, down with me
Or so he said, yes he did homey
But as it turned out he wasn't down with Nate Dogg
He was down with Bread
You know what's wrong
You need to take your bad ass home
It's never too late, to go back
To where you come from, oh homey
It's never too late, to go back
To where you come from
Do you remember home?
Has it been that long since you been gone?
Won't you come back home?
Seems like it was yesterday when you lost your way
And let your homies hang all the while you got paid
Do you respect family? Do you know what that mean?
To give everything and not expect to receive
I gave all I had, it really makes me mad
To think I've been had let's forget about the past
But you know what's wrong
You need to take your bad ass home
It's never too late, to go back
To where you come from, oh homey
It's never too late, to go back
To where you come from
I will lift my voice and forever sing
Music gives me joy, may we always reign
And if I lose my way, may my family place
A foot where I can taste a bitter sweet embrace
You know what's wrong
You need to take your bad ass home
It's never too late, to go back
To where you come from, oh homey
It's never too late, to go back
To where you come from

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/