

Going South (7" Version)

The Wolfgang Press

Peace and love, a phoney kind of blubber
My instincts tell me to crash
You've got salt emissions and you know how to use them
I somehow think this won't last So I'm moving south
To the great unknown
Yeah I'm moving south
Where the head unloads You've got a reason some funky little demons
Telling me that life is a gas
You're a deconstruction a euphemism nothing
Motown gives it a blast So I'm moving south
To the great unknown
Yeah I'm going south
Where the head unloads Called my brother, he said, "I need a lawyer"
And my life is sinking at best
Called my brother, he said, "I've just become A moaner who lives in the past" You've got a vision some funky little sms
Telling me that life is a gas
Your misconception is a pitiful expression
It's something, I'll never possess So I'm moving south
To the great unknown
Yeah I'm moving south
Where the head unloads Peace and love, a phoney kind of blubber
My instincts tell me to crash
You've got salt emissions and you know how to use them
I somehow think this won't last So I'm moving south
To the great unknown
Yeah I'm moving south
Where the head unloads

Songwriters

ALLEN, MICHAEL DEREK / GRAY, ANDREW KEITH Published by

Lyrics © Universal Music Publishing Group

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>