Down Again

The Superjesus

Wasting, all that I desired, would bring me down again And I could, keep it all inside, its just about becoming Now I'm under the sun, won't anyone see that I'm alive. Through the days that will ride with me, all through the night,

I'll be braving the winters the best that I know, 'cause nothings the same when you wait for something I was alone 'til i thought it was better that way.Static, draining in my eyes,

its all that I could see And time would never sympathise, its just enough to save me Now I'm hoping to stay, seconds away, from all that I can be

Every time that I run from you, and run from me.Well I'll be braving the winters the best that I know, 'cause nothing's the same when you wait for something

And I was alone 'til I thought it was better that way. Now I'm under the sun, won't anyone see that I'm alive every time that I fall asleep, and still survive. Well I'll be braving the winters the best that I know, 'cause nothing's the same when you wait for something

I was alone 'til I thought it was better that way.Nothing follows me down again

Nothing follows me down again

Nothing follows me down again
