

Loving Me

Jon McLaughlin

Open up the center of my being
There's gotta be some room inside of meI'm tired of trying to find a way
To make it through these endless days
Complacency is not enough for meConstant thoughts of where I ought to be Plague me
How could I be a fool so long
When the only way I live at allYou're loving me
It's You're grace that's so amazing
You're loving meI've tried to push distractions from my head
Oh, I try and try but find myself misleadFor I need Your hand to clear this road
I know I cannot bear this load
I run until I run right out of breath
And only a fool would run from what he knows is bestFor without Your hand to guide
I know there's loneliness
There's never growth
But still I try, I fail all on my ownBut through it all
You're loving me
It's You're grace that's so amazing
You're loving meSo open up any door for me
And watch me walk again
I give up all fear and reluctance to depend
And when I fall down, Your rules they never bend
You pick me up anywayCause You're loving me
It's You're grace that's so amazing
You're loving me
