Die For You

Alice Cooper

A hundred numbers on my wall
Some with names I sometimes call
I drop the coin and watch it fall
Tryin' to get connected to you
A thousand hours all alone
My softest pillow turns as hard as stone
This is the longest night on my own
Lyin' here thinkin' of you
Sometimes I shake my head and I
Laugh to myself
Well I'd like to start again with
Somebody else
Well I'm like a broken toy
Forgotten on the shelf
Baby, I could have been someone
I could have been somethin'
It would have been nothin' to die for you
Baby you're gonna need me
You better believe me
It would have been easy to die for you
Alright
A million memories flood my brain
Drown my sorrow, kill my pain
Wets my thirst for you again
Just another night to get through
All my neighbors scream
For quiet at my door
Shattered glass an' torn up
Photos on the floor
Well, I couldn't stand
To see your pictures anymore
Baby, I could have been someone
I could have been somethin'
It would have been nothin' to die for you
Baby you're gonna need me
You better believe me
It would have been easy to die for you
Alright
These cuts are deep but you plead innocent

(Innocent)
Are you Hell or are you Heaven sent?
(Heaven sent)
You're much to cold to know how much you meant
To me, yea, yea
(Aaa)
A billion tear drops fallin' from my eyes
But it's just a joke now
And I'm laughin' at your lies
You made me hard as rock now I realize
I could have been someone
I could have been somethin'
It would have been nothin' to die for you
(O o o o)
Oh you're gonna need me
(O o o o)
You better believe me
It would have been so easy to die for you
(O o o o)
Yea I could have been someone
I could have been somethin'
It would have been nothin' Babe to die for you
(O o o o)
Oh you're gonna need me
(O o o o)
You better believe me
It would have been easy to die for you

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/