Walk on Fire

Dionysus

I may be moving on without any sign of what's below the surface
I may pretend that everything is in order but It's just an illusion I may just walk on by like nothing is wrong
I might say that it's all right but I can never fool myself in this matter Cause inside it's aching I walk alone here in the center of my life it felt so good to be all free but I never wanted it to be foreverI could walk on fire to hear you whisper that you want me in your life I could walk on fire cause I surrender to feel the magic once again I thought that I could be so strong on my own Without obligations but there's a hunger that I can't look away from no matter
I never thought that I would ever feel the need in the name of desperation but I have learned that there is nothing in this world that can be certainly for sure even if you play by the rules all the way
