Redeem Me

Marc Almond

Don't miss the me I used to be
Don't miss the wild depravity
Perfumes and powders in my nose
The feeling of those leather clothes
The me I was I never lost, just took a little time to seeDon't miss the places that I've been Don't miss the people that I've seen
The making love on [Incomprehensible]
While planning revolutions, breaking resolutions
And now it all seems like a dreamThere's a hammer, hear some voices singing
Bells are ringing in the still of the night
I want that music to soothe all my bruises
Turn darkness into lightI need some beauty in my life
I'm tired of trouble, tired of strive
To dig for diamonds, dive for pearls
Beauty will redeem the Beauty will redeem the worldThere were times I would've been outrageous
There were moments, it seemed too [Incomprehensible]
I danced my way through subterranean sellers
Chasing stars up alley ways[Incomprehensible] doorways
Covered in glitter
Falling in and out of clubs and bars
It's not too far to fall to the gutter from the starsThere's a hammer, hear some voices singing
Bells are ringing in the still of the night
I want that music to soothe all my bruises
Turn darkness into lightI need some beauty in my life
I'm tired of trouble, tired of strive
To dig for diamonds, dive for pearls
Beauty will redeem meI need some beauty in my life
I'm tired of trouble, tired of strive
To dig for diamonds, dive for pearls
Beauty will redeem the world
Beauty will redeem the worldBeauty will redeem me
Beauty will redeem me
Beauty will redeem me
Redeem meDon't miss the me I used to be
It takes the strangest things to see
But in my heart, I'm the same man
The me I was, the me I am
