

Absent Friends

Killing Joke

I remember the sun beating down across my back
The taste of olives and pleasures that you taught me
And we broke bread and then we drank cheap white wine Memories of happiness frozen for all time I hear you crying in my heart and absent friends shall live by love
Remember places of my past and absent friends shall live by love
And the dead shall live again and absent friends shall live by Love, love, love, love And I remember laughing so much we cried
You knew my every thought, there was nothing I could hide
We celebrated moons we marveled at the night sky
With flute and drum and pen we were grateful for our lives I hear you crying in my heart and absent friends shall live by love
Remember places of my past and absent friends shall live by love
And the dead shall live again and absent friends shall live by Love, love, love, love

Songwriters

Lowell George Published by

ANGEL MUSIC, INC.; ANGEL MUSIC INC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>