

Mortal Hope

Dreadful Shadows

I'm walking through our forest again
And I'm waiting for the sun
The grass is damp, the birds are dumb
They don't sing their melody
But I still know how it soundsNow I'm sitting down at this stone
Where we were waiting for the day
The sun is cold and heaven's grey
It seems like yesterday
When I was at your graveWhere will I see you again
Hoping for coincidence
When will I kiss you again
Feeling no more aloneI watch the sun it passes by
I don't feel the heat anymore
'cos now you're gone
But I am buried deep beneath your feet
And I can't see tomorrow
