

I Know You Well

Christopher Cross

This morning under awaking glow
The sun filled our room like December snow
Like morning through an old window
There's a place in your head I will always know
To the same world born two of a kind
If it's on your mind, it'll be on mine 'cause

I know you well

Like the soil in the ground

(I know you well)

Grass grown in the shadow of a blow

And if the blow will never toll

You and me grow old

I hope we'll live to tell

How you know I know?

You knew, I know you well

Down under beneath the softened skin

Where the words we whisper sink in

It's no wonder the way the words still ring

Sure as sin, it's not a secret thing

To the same world born two of a kind

It's on your mind, it'll be on mine 'cause

I know you well

Like the soil in the ground

(I know you well)

Grass grown in the shadow of a blow

And if the blow will never toll

You and me grow old

I hope we'll live to tell

How you know I know?

You knew I know New York in 1991

Here in the same room for so long

Out of the cold November

Still as a passport picture

Still as a passport picture

Still as a passport picture when

To the same world born two of a kind

It's on your mind, it'll be on mine 'cause

I know you well

Like the soil in the ground

(I know you well)
Grass grown in the shadow of a blow
And if the blow will never toll
You and me grow old
I hope we'll live to tell
How you know I know?
You knew I know you well
