

Words

Passenger

well the first time that i saw her standing in the middle of the road eyes as bright as christmas lights wearing someone else's clothes i did my best to ignore her but ignoring my best pretty soon we spent the night all tangled tight in an armchair in my friends front roomi said darling you know darling you know i can't stay cos i've given my heart and my word to a girl far away i felt weak as she kissed my cheek and sighed when i heard her say never knew i could get my heart broken in less than a dayoh and the next time that i saw her must have been a year or more face stained with mascara shivering outside my door i did my best to assure her but assurance isn't easy to give if you've never been sure of anything much and get less so the longer you liveshe said darling you know darling you know i can't stay cos i've given my heart and my word to a boy far away i spoke soft and pretended to cough like i didn't care either way never knew i could get my heart broken in so many ways

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>