God, Drugs & Sex

Anberlin

A grand blank look on your face
When you learned it was over
Do you ever question why
What could have been different
We were so comfortable living in each others skin
I was dying from withinCause God, drugs, and sex don't mean a thing
To you now do they now baby
I don't mean anything
By it now do I now sweetheart
You should have thought about then for now
But God, drugs and sex don't mean a thing
To you now do they now baby
You should have thought about then for now
But I had to leaveTell me where did you learn to love
Maybe I don't want to know
Tell me when did your hands grow cold
It might tell you something
If you could go back to yesterday
Would you change it all for me
If you thought we could be, would you believe itLet go, let go of me now
I'm not here
Let go, let go of me now
'Cause I'm already gone
