

Now

Everclear

Waste my time running in circles
Waste my time going bad on the vine
I spent the last year walking through the fire
Now I do believe it's my turn to shine
(Now it's my turn to shine)Waste my time walking in rythm
Waste my time talking in rhyme
I spent the last year in a Mexican freefall
I do believe it's my turn to climbI used to think I was born to know trouble
I used to think I was a born-again clown
I used to think I had everybody guessing
I looked like I was flying high when I was falling downNow I am taller than I used to be
Now I am living again
Now I like where I have found myself
This is where I want to be nowNow this is where I want to be Now this is where I want to be
Now this is where I want to beI was falling free in Mexico
Living on those taco bars and sweet sunshine
Learning how to walk again in my own skin
Learning the art of losing my mindI used to think I was born in a hurricane
I used to think I was jumping jack flash
I used to think I was a victim of circumstance
Beating up on everyone all the time
I should have been kicking myself in my own assNow I don't worry about the future much
Now I don't think about the past
Now I'm learning how to laugh again
This is where I want to be nowNow I'm tired of the drama club
Now I'm sick with all the hate
Yeah, it's been one hell of a hard year
This is where I want to be now
This is where I want to be now
I want to be now

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>