

Snow In July

Garth Brooks

Love was burning like the summer we were lost in one another
Holding on, holding on, we could not escape the heat
Love was dangerous but sweet and it was strong Now you're talking 'bout your freedom what is that you say
You suddenly declared to me your independence day Caught me by surprise
Fog turning to ice Well it ain't even cold, baby
How could it snow in July Well, you led me to believe that you found everything you needed
In my arms, for so long I thought everything was fine
Now you're turning on a dime and moving on, moving on Now I should have brought my sweater for a chill is in the air
There's a sudden change of weather, for which I am not prepared Caught me by surprise
Fog turning to ice Well, it ain't even cold, baby
How could it snow in July Well, I should have brought my sweater
For a chill is in the air
There's a sudden change of weather
For which I am not prepared Caught me by surprise
Fog turning to ice Well, it ain't even cold baby
How could it snow in July
