

Cry

Rick Springfield

You look back in his eyes
One final time as you close the door
And you knew somehow a part of you died in that house
Now theres nobody here can shelter you
You close up you hold back the tears
But you cant fight the pain now then why do you tryGo on and cry
And surrender to it tonight
Time
Alone wont heal your woundsYou still see his face
It was one time a part of your life
Now it hangs like a ghost
Holding you each time you try to move on
Youve tried to bury those memories but they keep refusing to die
And you cant let them go just by saying goodbyeYouve got to cry
And surrender to it tonight
Time
Alone wont heal your wounds
It just makes you numb
Cry
Break your heart and do it
Its alright
Cry
Like a childNow life it too short to begin it baby
When the pain gets too strong to denyIt stands in your way and it wont let you byYouve got to cry
Just surrender
Cry
Like a child
Cry
Time
Alone wont heal your wounds
It just makes you numb
Cry
Break your heart and do itIts alright
Cry
Like a child
