

For Now

Kina Grannis

Sometimes I think about the ones that we've replaced
All the millions underneath a burning waste
Like it said because all course will be the same
All of history collapsing in its wake Maybe it's enough that I laid here
Maybe it's enough that I've know inside my head and
Maybe it's enough to know that we were here together
We are the ones
We are the ones
We are the ones for now I heard that someday when they look up at the night
They'll see nothing but a blacken star and sky
And they'll tell stories of some olden kind of time
Claiming spectacles of billion burning lights Maybe it's enough that I laid here
Maybe it's enough that I've known inside my head and
Maybe it's enough to know that we were here together
And that we are the ones
We are the ones
We are the ones for now So maybe this is what it takes to realise
I am grateful just that I have been alive And now be happy if I look back on my life
Been a sister, Been a mother, Been a wife Maybe it's enough that I laid here
Maybe it's enough that I know inside my head and
Maybe it's enough to know that we were here together
And that we are the ones
We are the ones
We are the ones for now
