

Broken Waters

Endless Blue

Testing broken waters wondering if it's true
I want you to understand what this means for you
Cosmically our worlds collide and bounce apart
Things are not working out, but listen to your heart
And it says

Why should we give up
When our love was more than we were capable of?
Why should we let go of this?
Why should we make up our minds like this
If you could only see things
The way that i do
You would see
You would see it's true

Consciously avoiding me your see-through glass facade
You make it seem like you don't care, pretend you don't know love
Refusing to feel anything seems to be status quo
I don't have anymore time for you
Your confused, tormented soul

Why should we give up
When our love was more than we were capable of?
Why should we let go of this?
Why should we make up our minds like this
If you could only see things
The way that i do
You would see
You would see it's true
