

Falling for You

Sean Fournier

You left home the other night.
I wont see you for a couple days,
but I still leave on all the lights and all your stuff is still in place where you left it.

You turned me into a wreck
I swear I hear you coming through that door, but every time I go to check you're not there and I swear not to fall for that no more.

Oh my God, could this be? Is love finally tripping me?
I'm falling for you.
And if I die before I wake, the dreams of you were my escape.
I'm falling for you.

A TV lights an empty room that shines upon me laying in my bed
as every memory of you,
all night long since you've been, is running through my head

Oh my God, could this be? Is love finally tripping me?
I'm falling for you.
And if I die before I wake, the dreams of you were my escape.
I'm falling for you.

Oh, I am so behind every single thought of you is ever-running through my mind.

Oh my God, could this be? Is love finally tripping me?
I'm falling for you.
And if I die before I wake, the dreams of you were my escape.
I'm falling for you.
