So Strange

The Hummers

It's so hard to breath right now
Livin' things without a friend of mine
Air just fillin' every bit, of every end, of every mind
You thought you could feelAnd it's maybe six a.m.
And no one wants to be with me
So I'm callin' out to someone and somethin'
That I don't know so well
And, ohh, I'm freeIf I can't find the warmth in my summer
And if I can't find the light in my day
I just look to my friends and we'll see our troubles away
You make me feel so strangeWon't you let me breath the air?
I want to hold on to right now
Won't you let me read a book about
Somebody's queen, came back for me and, ohhI see bridges in my eyes
An' I see mornings left for the children
I see people holdin' back
Tryin' to find another reason so they can walk away
And it makes me scream and I prayIf you can't find the warmth in my summer
And if I can't find the light in my day
I just look to my friends and I'll see our troubles away
You make me feel so strangeIt will never end 'cause we don't speak
It will never just die
So why don't you call the man
And, tell him to come over here and just clean up my prideIf I can't find the warmth in my summer
And if I can't find the light in my day
I just look to my friend and we'll see our little troubles away
You make me feel so strangeIf I can't find the warmth in my summer
And if I can't find the light in my day
I just look to my friend and we'll see our, see our troubles awayIf I can't find the warmth in my summer
And if I can't find the light in my day
I just look to my friend and we'll see our
See our, see our little troubles away
You make me feel so strange
