

Hunter

Husky

Come now sister don't you wait for the sky to clear
I have never seen it rain so truly
Find somewhere to sleep this bus stop's sinking like a pew
They can wait till morning or a week, or two

I came here not for love but for the possibility
Of setting free the love we knew for all of time
Don't you remember that I said that I would not forget
Your memory is safe with me
In your memory

Strange how things just come to me in my sleep
Climb the rolling hills that are so steep
And I don't recognize you and all you need is Knowing we know each other so well
I will be the hunter and you can light the fire
Keep it burning until I return as darkness falls over to take you
oooooooooh x4

All the way to whaler's cove, the country side and me
Every little thing is still in its place
If it were hours where I thought that I would be Surely I would know it in my bones

I came here not for love but for the possibility
Of setting free the love we knew for all of time
Don't you remember that I said that I would not forget
Your memory is safe with me
In your memory

The only thing I know is I'm not sure
Where I left the keys to all the doors
And now that I am here I don't know why
Everybody is the same

I will be the hunter and you can light the fire
Keep it burning until I return as darkness falls over to take you
oooooooooh x4

Lyrics submitted by Monica Ince.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>