Beyond Me

Joe Stevens

The sky is falling
Itâ€™s coming down and blowing
All around like last summerâ€™s leaves

The high road is calling
Like it has many a day
But for a first I am listening

Well Iâ€™m parked here on this city bench
As I set these pipe dreams free, oh
So how this road became my own
I donâ€™t get it, itâ€™s beyond me

I was a young man
With my thumb out in the rain
Threw myself at the mercy of the world.

I wasnâ€™t the biggest fan of the hourly wage
Iâ€™d rather find myself in the eyes of a girl

But my worldly bent brought discontent
But it was all I would believe, oh
So why this grace did come my way
I must admit, itâ€™s beyond me

To see your life come undone
You brought on what you feared
But Iâ€™m sure Iâ€™ll only come up shortchanged
If I interfered

Oh

Here in the heartland
Where troubleâ€™s far away
And itâ€™s just my maker and me

I will lay my coat down
Give an offering
And resign myself to agree

But in this blessed day I cannot stay
No thereâ€™s many more to be, oh
So how this road became my own
I donâ€™t get it, itâ€™s beyond me
So how this road became my own
I donâ€™t get it, itâ€™s beyond me

Oh
