

Hang It On the Wall

Morton Valence

Paint a pretty picture
Hang it on the wall
the one we used look at it isn't there anymore although the colours were all faded and there were cracks starting to show I hate to see it out there just dumped in the road by an empty old mirror and a broken handbag I know it's for the best but still I feel a little sad paint a pretty picture de la mar y el sol Drinking wine from the river
Hang it on the wall

make it pleasing to the eye forget about the crack that we put it there to hide forget about that tattoo and the bruises on your arms paint a pretty picture full of wonder and charm the warm glow of nostalgia in a yellow sun all those funny little things we never noticed before paint a pretty picture de la mar y el sol
Drinking wine from the river
Hang it on the wall

It's time to go it's getting late this song won't cure your bellyache you'll have to find something to take this song won't cure your bellyache
