1000 Pounds

Superchunk

You finally pulled back when the world pulled your hair
Alone in the room with a question hangin
You left with your hand in the air, and it's still thereBut your time(?) moves so fast
Twelve years old someting but you come in last
Had a mirror that would never lie
But i think it always pays to tryAnd everytime i saw you
You were trying so hard to explain
Broadcast failure
Now the plastic bowl its spinning down to drain
But you came through, you came through
When nobody expected you to
You came through, you came through
With all those narrowed eyes upon you
You came through, you came throughNow you wish you weighed a thousand pounds
So you could crush all those bullies and demons down
From your seat at the back of the bus
You're still waving back at us
And everytime i saw you
You were trying so hard to explain
Broadcast failure
Now your plastic bowl its spinning down to drainBut you came through, you came through
When nobody expected you to
