On The Wane

Sirenia

Do you live a lie? Are you lost in life? On the wane tonight like every nightDo you live a lie? Would you like to try? In this world of vainly missions I'm a god of superstitionWould you grant me a savage prison? within the walls of your decisions If you hurt me I won't recover Don't you turn me downWe are all living a lie would you like to try? In these halls of time we are all giving in for another day We shall pass away on the break of day We're lost anywayDo you live a lie? Do you stand me by? Would you cope for my existence? Would you last or cease persistence? I'm the moon and the seventh dreamer you're the hewn and a lost redeemer Heavenworks for a welkin at dusk you're a frail outcast"Recall the fragments of a broken life just like a shattered soul divine You are the treason-reflecting eyes

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/

You are the darkness that sets in every light"