

Sleep Well

Mae

I begin to dream with barely open eyes tonight

A quiet melody, it sings to me, asleep I fall

With whispered songs of hope that come toward my ears and stick inside my head

And hold at bay the fear, the droplets on the pane reverberate the same thing Sleep well, sleep well tonight

Oh won't you sleep well, won't you sleep well tonight

All that I believe and all I know that we can do

It begins again with day and it begins again with me and you

So let's be quiet and be still and steal these peaceful hours all away

And claim the stars as ours, I know just where they'll be and what they'll say they will sing Sleep well, sleep well tonight

Oh won't you sleep well, won't you sleep well tonight

Won't you sleep well, sleep well tonight

Won't you sleep well, oh, won't you sleep well tonight
