

Learning to Pretend

Abraham Cloud

When you wake up in the morning,
Can of beer in your hand,
And your mouth feels like a pillow,
And your head is hurting bad,

When the wind comes crawling through your window,
Calling you to follow it again,
You might feel that your life is not your own Itâ€™s always waiting up around the bend,

LEARNING TO PRETEND

As you drive down crowded freeways,
Bright-White-Fear fills your eyes,
And you think you feel so desperate,
But we all feel that way most the time.

Donâ€™t be scared of fantastic new illusions
They may turn out to be your only friends,
Find a groove and let it take you down the highway,
You might never find that kind of groove again,

LEARNING TO PRETEND

And the magic of the moment just lasts an instant When you see it gottaâ€™ grab it, Wonâ€™t be hangin â€™ round, Wo hanginâ€™ round for too long.

LEARNING TO PRETEND

LEARNING ALL YOUR LIFE THEN YOUâ€™RE LEARNING ONCE AGAIN

LEARNING TO PRETEND

When the view you used to be so used to Gets flattened by some fat and angry men,
And you canâ€™t remember why you came here but youâ€™re leaving once again, youâ€™re

LEARNING TO PRETEND

Lyrics submitted by Abraham.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>