

Keep Your Soul Clean

rumHoney

I am drowsy, I am sleepy
Waiting for her lips to land
And she has me where she needs me,
Eating from the palm of her hand

But it only takes a searching question,
Everything comes crashing down
As she dances to her own slow rhythm
She takes herself away to where it all began
While I look after her, and do whatever I can

Keep your soul clean and your body out of trouble,
You won't see truth unless you want to,
It ain't my way to be caught in the middle
I just don't know what came over you

I am hungry, I am dirty
But my frame will not obey
No it's nothing I'm just thirsty,
Don't you worry I'm ok.

Until she wakes up in the early morning
And feels lost, sick and down
Suddenly and without any warning
She loses the struggle with the bad and the good
And cries herself awake like she only could

Keep your soul clean and your body out of trouble,
You won't see truth unless you want to,
It ain't my way to be caught in the middle
I just don't know what came over you

I am drowsy, I am sleepy
Waiting for her lips to land
And she has me where she needs me,
Eating from the palm of her hand

Keep your soul clean and your body out of trouble,
You won't see truth unless you want to,
It ain't my way to be caught in the middle

I just donâ€™t know what came over you
