

Outta Town (feat. Lisa Bates)

Chad Fontaine

Well I hope I make it outta town tonight, 'cause there's a storm that's blowing in, I can see it to the west, It had started to begin, the clouds are boiling up into the sky, I can tell ya' somethings coming down tonight, Hope I make it out alright, I hope I make it outta' town tonight 'cause now I'm standing in the yard, the bull keeps driving by, I hear he's pretty hard, Well I don't mind a fine, they're all the same, you aint' catchin' me catchin' my eastbound train, you aint' catchin' me catchin' my way back home again, Well I hope I make it outta' town tonight, and I hope I make it outta here alive, And I hope that I'll make out in life alright, and I hope I make it outta' town tonight, Well I hope I make it outta' town tonight, cause' now I'm standing by my train and it has yet to pull away, I just felt a drop of rain, oh wait I hear the breaks, okay, now off she takes, to the eastbound and down, to another town, where I can mess around, I'm glad I made it outta town tonight, I have that feeling that ya' get, you know that somethin' just aint right and you're pretty sure you're getting wet or no, but not today, glad it didn't go that way, my ride is fast and free and next time you should go with me, I hope I make it outta town tonight, and I hope I make it outta here alive. And I hope that I'll make out in life alright, and I hope I make it outta' town tonight. Hope I make it outta town tonight.

Lyrics Submitted by Shannon XX

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>