

The Loss

Figure Four

So long, leave me memories
I'd rather think of better moments
I've come this far and realized things are never gonna change
Unless you face it, face it
Face and overcome what breaks youWould you steal my heart and turn it into stone?
Kill my hope and make a mockery?
Watch me form into a person that I always said
I'd always thought I'd never die
I thought I'd never dieIs this worth it?
Don't you live your whole life in questioning?
Don't you live your whole life in suffering
Suffering, suffering, suffering?You're so cold
Inside my head I could hear your words
Though I'm a skeptic, all my life I've made myself reject it
Now I see somethingI'd give my everything just to taste the world
I'd give my everything just to taste the world
This world I seeI'd give my everything just to taste the world
I'd give my everything just to taste the world
