Beggin' For Affection

David Lee Murphy

Well she's just not the kind
To sit home on a Friday night
With big teardrops rollin' down her cheeks
Sittin' there all alone
Waitin' by the telephone
Prayin' it's gonna ring
Well she won't be beggin' for affection
She won't have to look too far for sympathy
No she won't be beggin' for affection
There's gonna be someone to give her all the love she needs
I can almost see it now
Hearts breakin' all over town

She was born for the world to appreciate
She deserves to be held and kissed
Like the woman she really is
If she decides to leave it'll be too late
Well she won't be beggin' for affection
She won't have to look too far for sympathy
No she won't be beggin' for affection
There's gonna be someone to give her all the love she needs
'Cause I'll be right here to give her all the love she needs
