Angels On the Moon (Live In Salt Lake City)

Thriving Ivory

Do you dream, that the world will know your name
So tell me your name
Do you care, about all the little things or anything at all?
I wanna feel, all the chemicals inside I wanna feel
I wanna sunburn, just to know that I'm alive
To know I'm aliveDon't tell me if I'm dying, cause I don't wanna know
If I can't see the sun, maybe I should go
Don't wake me cause I'm dreaming, of angels on the moon
Where everyone you know, never leaves too soonDo you believe, in the day that you were born
Tell me do you believe?
Do you know, that everyday's the first of the rest of your lifeDon't tell me if I'm dying, cause I don't wanna know
If I can't see the sun, maybe I should go
Don't wake me cause I'm dreaming, of angels on the moon
Where everyone you know, never leaves too soonThis is to one last day in the shadows
And to know a brother's love
This is to New York City angels
And the rivers of our blood
This is to all of us, to all of usDon't tell me if I'm dying, cause I don't wanna know
If I can't see the sun, maybe I should go
Don't wake me cause I'm dreaming, of angels on the moon
Where everyone you know, never leaves too soonYou can tell me all your thoughts, about the stars that fill polluted skies
And show me where you run to, when no one's left to take your side
But don't tell me where the road ends, cause I just don't wanna know, No I don't wanna knowDon't tell me if I'm dying
Don't tell me if I'm dying
Don't tell me if I'm dying

Songwriters
JASON, SCOTT / STROOPE, CLAYTONPublished by Lyrics Â© Chrysalis One Music

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/