The Wretched

Attack Attack !

You're dead to meIt might be hard to understand
I'll show the world who you really are
So just step asideSo let this be the beginning
The time of liars and thieves is descending
And let this be your warning
The path of the wretched is burningI thought I knew you, now you can't save your name
We won't follow the deceiver
Don't try to silence my words with your lies
We won't follow the deceiverWhat were you searching for
When you stabbed me in the back?
What were you lying for?
When we gave you all you had?I finally see that you've fallen away
From the bond that we had I fear it won't be the same
I thought I knew you but you threw it away
Now you're dead to me, fuck youI thought I knew you, now you can't save your name
We won't follow the deceiver
Don't try to silence my words with your lies
We won't follow the deceiverThis is what I expected
Another life lesson is what I'm left with
Look at what you've started
A war of words is what we'll part withSo don't act like you don't know exactly what you really are
The truth will find us both in the end, in the end
The difference being that it will show me blameless
While it robs you of your breathYour deceiving is worthy of receiving an end
So don't act like you don't know what you are my friend
I thought I knew you now you can't save your name
We won't follow the deceiverThis is what I expected
Another life lesson is what I'm left with
Look at what you've started
A war of words is what we'll part withThis is what I expected
(We won't follow the deceiver)
Another life lesson is what I'm left withLook at what you've started
(We won't follow the deceiver)
A war of words is all we'll part with
(We won't follow the deceiver)You're dead to me
So don't act like you don't know
