Marylou

The Rambling Wheels

I knew I should have stayed
When you told me to wait outside
Why do you never listen to me
Darling?Oh, honey I must confess
You're still the prettiest girl
Even in a blood stained dress
Oh darlingBut sheriff's Webber took the shot
I watched you stumble to the ground
Stood in shock as you fell down
Marylou
All the men you've killed
Will be there waiting for you
Marylou
I will surely join you soon
Cause the simple fact is
I can't live, MarylouBut I won't let your life
Be lost in vain
I'll rip out the bastards heart
Oh darlingI will feed him to the pigs
Take you to Saddle Creek
We'll spend our last moments togetherWe'll watch our final sunset
I'll smoke my last cigarette
Wipe my tears and say goodbye
I look up to the sky
See our lives flash before my eyes
Now on my knees
Feel the cold steel against my temple
And as I fall to the ground I wear a smile cause
Marylou, here I come
