

Roses and Butterflies

Making April

I can see where you are I can tell you're enjoying it so far I would love to escape, but now I'm bound by the of burn of your eyes looking on as I'm starting to realize I'm a pawn in your game and this is checkmateas the roses lift their heads to catch a glimpse of my demise you'll be throwing lies around like ocean waves throw down the tides and they are breaking on my shore and the rescue team won't save me now I'm out too farso I'll waste these nights for a while but I'll be holding onto you forever and this is where my heart is cold and torn as I read the words you wrote last night the butterflies are creeping through my spineit's a thrill I can't shake yeah I know we've been writing a mistake but it's hard to erase the feelings I've drawn I was caught in an awkward silence broken down by the sound of your prelude that you played to open our symphony I've been sleeping with the sunrise watching hours pass away incidentally I'm just waiting for the dusk to kill the day but now I'm waiting for your call while I bang on this piano like you care at allso I'll waste these nights for a while but I'll be holding onto you forever
and this is where my heart is cold and torn as I hear the words you're saying tonight I'm falling for them every single timeas the roses dip their heads a little further to the ground there's a season change and all the pinks and whites have turned to brown will we make it through the fall yeah are we gonna make it through this fall cause I don't wanna fall with you I'm trying, we're dying, yeahhh I'm taken by your hope-filled lines they're well designed and dragging me along I'll be waiting for this chance and I'll be gone Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>