

Unrequited

Bryan Clark

He had all kind of reasons
Why she was unable to love him
    She was just too young
    She was too high strung
She was afraid of commitment
    But all of the theories
        That he recited
        Played like the song
        Of the unrequited
And baby, how long's it been now
    Since you held me to your chest
    And told me that you love me
        More than all the rest?
It's such a shame that you won't talk to me
    'Cuz I won't repeat after you
    I believe that there is more to life
We could've loved each other through
    But I was afraid of commitment
        When it came to you
    I'll tell you, if there is one instinct
        I just can't get with at all
It's the urge to kill something beautiful
    Just to hang it on your wall
        Are you just too young?
        Are you too high strung
    To actually follow through
On all the love you said you had?
    Baby, I never lied to you
        Is all or nothing
    Really the best we can do?
