

Anchor

Birds of Tokyo

We stayed afloat for just a while
We dared to swim alone
Dark water left your sinking heart to drown I know it's much too late to try
You're never coming home
When the tide came in you left without a sound We don't say, what we should say
We get lost beyond the answer we find loneliness
We pretend but in the end
We get lost beyond the answer we find loneliness I never thought to hold you
I never thought that you might need an anchor
I never thought I'd lose you
I never thought that you might need an anchor I've seen your face so many times
You've stood in front of me
It was all so real
It was all so hard to see I'm chasing ghosts and alibis
Who speak so quietly
I can almost hear you say
Don't cry for me We don't say, what we should say
We get lost beyond the answer, we find loneliness
We pretend but in the end
We get lost beyond the answer, we find loneliness I never thought to hold you
I never thought that you might need an anchor
I never thought I'd lose you
I never thought that you might need an anchor Now this is all on me
Take my apology
I never thought it would end
Like it did here Now this is all on me
Take apology
It's all on me
This is all on me I never thought to hold you
I never thought that you might need an anchor
(need an anchor)
I never thought I'd lose you
I never thought that you might need an anchor
(need an anchor)(never thought you'd need an anchor) 4x

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>