

Pain

Chely Wright

Pain, pain go away
Please don't come another day
Please don't make me fight you off again I can't do it anymore
We've gone to battle
Gone to war
I surrender to you, pain
You win Now my outside
Are just about as battered as my inside
No, I can't hide the lines around these
Sad eyes
I tried to keep it
To myself
My own dark little secret
But you had to make sure everybody sees it
So be it
Pain, pain you have been
A most destructive loyal friend
You never left my side
Not even once I'm tired and skinny
I look rough
Tried to sleep
But you keep me up
I don't think I've smiled in seven years Now my outside
Are just about as battered as my inside
No, I can't hide the lines around these
Sad eyes
I tried to keep it
To myself
My own dark little secret
But you had to make sure everybody sees it
Now they see it
Pain, pain go away
You can visit but you cannot stay
It's shocking all the damage you have done You ravaged ruts into my mind
Aged me like the cheapest wine
Everybody knows that you have won
