Kill In The Spirit World

Black Sabbath

There's something wrong, there's a chill in the air
And the blood in my vein's running colder
The eastern sky is beginning to silver
And the words that you speak start to falter
The seal is broken, the oath has been crossed
In the house of the dead there's a taker
Some say that this is the ultimate sin
When the spirit world turns to the alter
There's been a kill in the spirit world
There's been a kill in the spirit world
Behold the dead clutching at fading hands
Out of reach forever
"In glory die", calls the voice of the void
Your assassin has cursed every specter
The seal is broken, the oath has been crossed
And the house of the dead seeks a master
Stretching every muscle, I wait for the end
And a kiss on the wind whispers murder, murder
There's been a kill in the spirit world
There's been a kill in the spirit world
There's been a kill in the spirit world
When Heaven is closer, it's pleasure and pain
Love, kill in the spirit world
Did you see another in black?
Is the blood in your veins running colder
If you did then there's no turning back
As the spirit world turns to the alter
The seal is broken, the oath has been crossed
And the house of the dead seeks the master
Stretching every muscle, I wait for the end
And a kiss on the wind whispers murder
There's been a kill in the spirit world, oh
There's been a kill in the spirit world
Oh, here it comes, no, no, no, no
The seal is broken, the eastern sky is beginning to silver
Hey, oh, there's something wrong, there's a chill in the air
Oh, you feel the evil, I feel the evil, oh
Somebody whispers murder
A kiss on the wind whispers murder

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/