Been Here Before

Jeremy Enigk

I put my back against the wall
This frozen track a judgment call.
Am I a creep with no self-esteem
The truth cuts deep but it cuts clean
Guess I gotta let it show

To break the ice would take a miracle
A thousand lies that IÂ´m trying so hard to ignore
I've been here before
I've been here before
I've been here before

You reach for my hand I turn away
You donÂ´t understand what IÂ´m trying to say
A cold embrace around my heart,
Give me some space, IÂ´m falling apart.

And even though we've been through hell,
To break the ice would take a miracle
A thousand lies that IÂ´m trying so hard to ignore
I've been here before
I've been here before
I've been here before

Slowly, slowly down this river
Slowly, slowly IÂ´m drifting away

But I've been here before
I've been here before
I've been here before
I've been here before

But to break the ice would take a miracle
A thousand lies that IÂ´m trying so hard to ignore
Trying so hard to ignore
I've been here before Before
